Summary:

In a service request dated February 14, 2019, Detective Kimberly Murray of the Chicago Police Department requested the Chicago Regional Computer Forensics Laboratory (RCFL) to process, examine the submitted items for all retrievable information, and make the results available for review.

Using available forensic tools, the submitted items were processed and examined for all retrievable information and that information was made part of a forensic report. For CGRCFL129305 the image was processed using available forensic tools and the results were made available for Detective Kimberly Murray to review. CGRCFL129308 was unable to be processed. Kimberly Murray's partner Kevin Stoll did not select any items for derivative evidence.

Details of Examination:

At the start of the examination on February 14, 2018, the submitted items were removed from the Chicago RCFL's evidence control room (ECR) in a sealed condition and were physically inventoried. Workstation performance was verified prior to the start of the examination. Using available forensic tools, the submitted items were processed and examined.

For CGRCFL129304, The device information, calendar, contacts, call logs, cookies, Global Positioning Satellite (GPS), locations, Multimedia Messaging Service (MMS), Short Message Service (SMS), timeline, applications, archives, audio, documents, images, texts, and videos which were included in the forensic report.

Noted the following information from the report:

Operating System (OS): Android version 8.0

International Mobile Electronic Identity (IMEI): [REDACTED]

Android Identification (ID): [REDACTED]

Time Zone: Chicago (America)

CGRCFL129306 was processed for all retrievable information and that information was made part of a forensic report. Noted the following information from the report:

Mobile Station International Subscriber Directory Number (MSISDN): [REDACTED]

Integrated Circuit Card Identifier (ICCID): [REDACTED]

CGRCFL129305 was physically inventoried, examined, write-protected, and imaged to a designated folder on the storage area network. A logical copy of the image files were included on the derivative evidence tape. Workstation performance was verified prior to the start of the examination. Drive geometry was obtained for the submitted item. The data integrity of the extracted image was verified both before and once again after the examination. Values to verify the data integrity of each file in the image was calculated. The image for CGRCFL129305 was searched to identify files stored in common formats and potentially encrypted files. A test was performed to determine if a file was compressed. Deleted files were recovered and a directory listing of the files was created. The image was searched for files and these files were sorted by file type. For each file located, full indexing was conducted. Detective Kimberly Murray's partner Kevin Stoll did not select any items as derivative evidence.

For CGRCFL129307 the device information, calendar, contacts, call logs, chats (Kik Messenger), cookies, GPS, locations MMS, SMS, timeline, applications, archives, audio, documents, images, texts, and videos were documented in a forensic report.

Noted the following information from the report:

Operating System (OS): Android version 8.0

Android Identification (ID): [REDACTED]

Time Zone: Chicago (America)

International Mobile Electronic Identity (IMEI): [REDACTED]

CGRCFL129307 was unable to be processed for any information.

Message Digest 5 hash values were calculated for all items created during the examination. The results of the examination were burned to Blu-Ray Disc recordable dual layer (BD-R DL) (bar-coded as CGRCFL129362 and CGRCFL129364) for the case agent. An additional copy was made for the RCFL (bar-coded as CGRCFL129366). A logical copy of the designated network folder was archived to an Ultrium tape (bar-coded as CGRCFL129491) which will serve as the post-examination archive.

Derivative Evidence/Copies:

Summary:

In a service request dated February 14, 2019, Detective Kimberly Murray of the Chicago Police Department requested that the Chicago Regional Computer Forensics Laboratory (CGR CFL) process and examine the submitted evidence for all retrievable data. It was further requested that this information be provided in a forensic report.

The submitted evidence items were examined and processed for all retrievable information. This information was provided to the requesting agency in a forensic report.

Details of Examination:

This examination was started on February 14, 2019 and completed on February 15, 2019. The submitted evidence items were removed from the CGRCFL's evidence control room (ECR) and physically inventoried. Workstation performance was verified prior to the start of the cellular phone examination. Using available forensic tools, the submitted evidence items were processed and examined for all retrievable information. The device information, contents, application usage, bluetooth devices, calendar, call log, chats, contacts, cookies, device notifications, emails, installed applications, global positioning system (GPS), journeys, locations, log entries, multimedia messaging services (MMS) messages, passwords, powering events, searched items, short messaging service (SMS) messages, user accounts, voicemails, web bookmarks, web history, wireless networks, timeline and data files were recovered. A random sampling of the recovered information was verified before powering down the device. CGRCFL129303 was processed for all retrievable information, which was added to the report. The following information was noted in the report:

- Owner Name: ola's iPhone
- Apple ID: [REDACTED]@yahoo.com
- Operating System Version: 12.1.2
- iCloud Account Present: True
- Integrated Circuit Card Identifier (ICCID): [REDACTED] and [REDACTED]
- Last Used ICCID: [REDACTED]
- Mobile Subscriber Integrated Services Digital Network Number (MSISDN): [REDACTED]
- Last Used MSISDN: [REDACTED]

Message Digest – 5 hash values were calculated for all items created during the examination. The forensic reports were copied onto two Blu-ray Disc Recordable (BD-R) Discs, bar-coded as CGRCFL129332 and CGRCFL129334, for the Case Agent. A third copy was made for the RCFL, bar-coded as CGRCFL129336. An archive of the contents of the working drive was copied to CGRCFL129338.

Derivative Evidence/Copies:
